

DANIEL BOONE - CONCENTRATION - GAME

To play, mix cards well and spread out on table, picture side down.

The first player to go turns over 2 cards so that everyone can see what they are. If both cards have the same picture and number, he keeps these 2 cards and counts them toward his score at the end of the game. He keeps going until he misses. The next player then goes.

Concentration is properly played where everybody watches closely to see exactly where the cards are put back so that when their turn comes they will know where to pick the card they need.

When all the cards have finally been paired off, the game is over and the players count their points. The player with the greatest number wins.
