T H E
Game of Bagatelle.

- NOTE:—Place a block or book, or some similar object under the board to raise the upper end, before playing.
- 1—This game can be played by any number of persons, either by playing partners, or each for himself.
  - 2—Each player has six shots (although the number of shots may be varied at will of the players), the player making the highest score in the number of shots taken being the WINNER.
  - 3—Each shot counts according to the number under the pocket in which the ball rests; or if the marble strikes the star, the same counts when the star point is directly over the number.
  - 4—A ball returning to its starting place or jumping off the board is a lost shot to the player.
  - 5—A ball stopping on any of the staples with numbers counts this amount for score.
  - 6—A ball striking the bell counts 100.
