

THE FORTUNE
TELLING
GAME.

PARKER BROS.
PUBLISHERS,
SALEM, MASS.

The Fortune Telling Game.

Published by PARKER BROTHERS, SALEM, MASS.

The picture cards must then be collected, well shuffled and distributed again, and another card of "Destiny" used. And in the same manner the cards must be gathered and distributed before reading from each new card of "Destiny."

The Soothsayer can contribute largely to the amusement of the company by enlarging upon the answer, or adding comical remarks of

EXCELLENT GAMES.

PUBLISHED BY PARKER BROTHERS, SALEM, MASS.

Complete illustrated catalogue mailed on receipt of five cent stamp.

TELKA.—A new and amusing game of skill; it is lively and exciting and easy to learn. Price, $1.00.

HOP SCOTCH TIDDLEDY WINKS.—The popular Boston game; Hop Scotch adopted to indoor use. Price, $1.00.

INNOCENCE ABROAD.—The well known game of travel. Everybody likes it. Price, $1.25.

ACROSS THE CONTINENT.—A trip from the Atlantic to the Pacific. Game contains railroad tickets over the principal routes, with money and all things necessary for a pleasant journey. Price $3.50.

DIRECTIONS FOR PLAYING

The Fortune Telling Game.

There are in this game ten picture cards, bearing illustrations of events in the life of two young people, and twenty cards of "Destiny."

In beginning the game one of the party is selected to act as Soothsayer.

This person retains in his or her hand all the printed cards, and the picture cards are then distributed to the other players, one card to each person. Those bearing odd numbers to the gentlemen, and those bearing even numbers to the ladies.

The Soothsayer then announces the sentence at the top of a "Destiny" card, and then calls upon the players in rotation for the numbers of their cards, and reads to each, the answer corresponding to the number given by the player.