RULES for the game of SNAP

THERE are 52 cards to deal—these are delt in singles to the players, face down. Cards are grouped in packs, face down, by all players.

The player next to the dealer, on the left, starts the game by taking the top card of his pack and placing it, face up, on the table without looking at it first. Play goes on, to the left of each player.

When a player sees two cards exactly alike turned up on the table, he calls out "Snap", and if he is the first to call, he takes up all the face-up cards in both packs in which the two cards of the pair appear.

The successful player places the cards won with faces down upon his original pack, and plays the first card in his pack upon the table.

Game continues until one of the players obtains all the cards in the pack. He is then declared the winner.
